

Offaly GDPR Policy

Some of the information that Offaly CCE may hold about you (in both paper or electronic format), where appropriate and permitted by law, includes your name, gender, age, date of birth, contact details, family and personal details, grades achieved in exams: awards achieved in competition; processing of Garda vetting; information held for health and safety purposes, or any data provided by you to Offaly CCE during the registration process at the start of each year or at any other time as part of a group or activity in which you are entering or are part of.

Among the reasons that Offaly CCE holds, retains, processes and may in the future collect personal information about you include the following: normal business practices related to your membership in the branch, registering for classes, organising groups and bands, contacting you in relation to branch activities and other notifications, classes, exams, performances, making information available, processing membership (including forwarding membership details to other units of Comhaltas including Comhaltas HQ), entry to and organisation of exams, evaluating performances / awards, maintaining and monitoring usage of rented instruments, generally interacting in respect to branch, Comhaltas, artistic, cultural and heritage activities, promoting events with and as required or expressly authorized by law.

You should be aware that in certain instances the Company may need to transfer or disclose your personal information to third parties (e.g. Comhaltas headquarters, other units of Comhaltas, regional and provincial Fleadh Organising Committees), including third party service providers rendering services on the behalf of the branch. Common examples of third party service provider's firms providing supporting services (e.g., website / database).

Your personal information may be disclosed or transferred to third parties only for the purposes identified above. Offaly CCE will retain your personal information for as long as is necessary, or for such longer period as may be required by law, or to satisfy a legitimate organisation need. In instances where you consider the processing of personal data infringes your rights, you have the right to lodge a complaint with the relevant supervisory authority.

In accordance with the GDPR EU Directive which came into effect on 25th May 2018:

You have the right to have the data that Offaly CCE holds about you and have it given to you in a way that is easy to read and transferable. This is the personal data referred to in the preceding paragraph.

You can have inaccuracies corrected or have information erased.

You can opt out of receiving text / email notifications, or other publications if you so wish.

You can restrict the processing of your information, including automated decision-making

With respect to the points above, if you want to obtain or amend information on the data Offaly CCE holds pertaining to you, or opt out of receiving text / email notifications, or other publications, you may do so by contacting the branch secretary informing them it is a Data Subject Access Request and the information will be sent to you within 30 days.
